DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Yourker US 3,639,301.

4. The rejection set forth under 35 USC 102/103 in the paper mailed 1/10/08 is deemed proper and is herein repeated.

5. The claims are as they were previously presented in the amendment filed 5/12/08.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 1/21/09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

7. Applicant's primary point of contention is that the aqueous dispersion as disclosed in Youker is useful for forming a foam and not to provide long term storage-stable aqueous dispersions. Further, applicants point out that there is no motivation in Youker to prepare a long term storage stable dispersion. This is not persuasive.

8. Applicant's claims are directed to an aqueous dispersion. The claims are product-by-process claims. Case law has well established that the patentability of product-by-process claims is predicated upon the product. Here, the product as claimed is not patentably distinct from the product of the prior art. The fact that the product of the prior art has a different intended utility is not germane to the patentability of the claimed product. There need be no motivation to form a long term storage stable dispersion as this is a 102/103 rejection and the product is considered anticipated. There is no claim limitation that reflects this alleged distinction and it is a property limitation that is presumed to be met by the product of the prior art. Applicant has failed to show or allege that the prior art does not, in fact, posses properties that anticipate and/or render obvious those claimed.

9. Applicant argues that the invention differs from the art in the gel content and the pH-value after storing. This is not persuasive. Youker at column 2 lines 20-28 discusses heat aging and the solids content (gel). Here the 60% solids content is expressly disclosed. It is reasonable to presume that the initial solids content is lower and less than 30% given the desirably to heat age and raise the solids content. Applicant has failed to show or allege that such is not the case. The fact that the art is silent as to this property does not mean that it does not exist. The ph value claimed is seen to be clearly met. The pH of Youker is lowered and no further reduction of pH occurs after storage. Applicant has failed to show or allege that the pH of the prior art dispersion will have "a significant drop in pH after storage."

Conclusion

10. This is an RCE of applicant's earlier application. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the earlier application and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the earlier application. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action in this case. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no, however, event will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
